

An Eastern Market Celebration

June 26, 2007

Tuesday, June 26, 6:30 – 8:00 pm

For over 150 years public markets have long played a vital public role in the Washington, DC community. Originally intended to centralize food distribution and to promote hygiene, Eastern Market has become a treasured civic gathering place. Designed by renowned architect Adolph Cluss and located in the Capitol Hill Historic District, Eastern Market has long served at the heart of this vibrant community.

Program Information

A panel of government representatives, community members, writers, and vendors will examine the past, present and future of Eastern Market as well as offer the public the chance to celebrate its significance in the community. 1.5 LU (AIA)

Panelists include:

Stephen Ackerman, Writer and Capitol Hill Native

Tommy Glasgow, Eastern Market Vendor

Donna Scheeder, Head of the Eastern Market Community Advisory Committee

Lars Etzkorn, Director, DC Office of Property Management

The program will conclude with recollections and testimonials from the community on the continued value of the market.

Program Location

National Building Museum
401 F Street NW
Washington, DC 20001
(Judiciary Square Metro, Red Line)

Registration

FREE. Registration required. To register, please call 202.272.2448, ext. 5903 or visit www.nbm.org.

Eastern Market Interior; courtesy of QUINN EVANS | ARCHITECTS.

Supported by Office of Property Management
Government of the District of Columbia
Adrian M. Fenty, Mayor